What do people think of "Tieflings"?

~~late~~ They're called either "demon-spawn" or "lizard-people". Generally, they're reviled and feared by most as the result of the sins of the spawn's forebears.

Demon-spawn are quite rare, and are typically killed on upon birth, when they survive, they do so because of the family is very devout and follows the proscriptions of that children and babies in particular are considered sacred.

Babies are the joyous result of a mother's pain and forbearance. They are the manifestation of the nurturing hardships women must endure and must be cared for.

So what would Rimaris do, and how is she gonna stumble upon the other Tieflings?

Rimaris is specifically looking for many like herself, and some indication had led her to the Island of Calamity, where it's said that demon-spawn are born at a higher rate than in normal.

What is happening in Calamity?

It is true that there are more wild-born in Calamity, and they are beginning to either purge them or enslave them. A faction of clerics from the Reformed Church of the Divine Masochist or the "Reformers." These Reformers ~~are~~ are also attempting a coup to take over the island in order to ~~liberate~~ liberate those marked by the Grand Humility as the heralds of his return.

Heresy and the Orthodoxy

~~Masochism~~ ~~As~~

As the Church of the Divine Masochist evolved from the ashes of a massive pantheon of gods and goddesses of the once mighty empire of Kalawagah, as such, it was once hunted and/or hated by administrators. ~~As~~

Years later, ^{opposing} melding with many philosophies that arose, a very heterogeneous, but still unified Church began the process of consolidating belief. Since then, many opinions ~~are~~ were struck down as Anathema and heresy.

~~Handwritten~~

Core Principles of Orthodox Masochism

God created the entirety of the universe, then the angels may have taken his creation and had taken credit for everything, divided amongst themselves.

Each angel had one virtue each, and one sin which had led the world into the way it is currently. The angels eventually fall away from their virtues and become demons.

The Divine Masochist is the manifestation of God borne onto the world, under the care of the Venerable Nation until he is able to recover his Godhead.

~~Angel of Humility / Demon of Pride~~

Angel of Humility / Demon of Inhibition

Angel of Justice / Demon of Intolerance

Angel of Delight / Demon of Debauchery

Angel of Nature / Demon of Pestilence

Angel of Civilization / Demon of Hubris

The Divine Masochist then took each of the Demons' burdens and returns their virtue. ~~The Venerable Nation~~

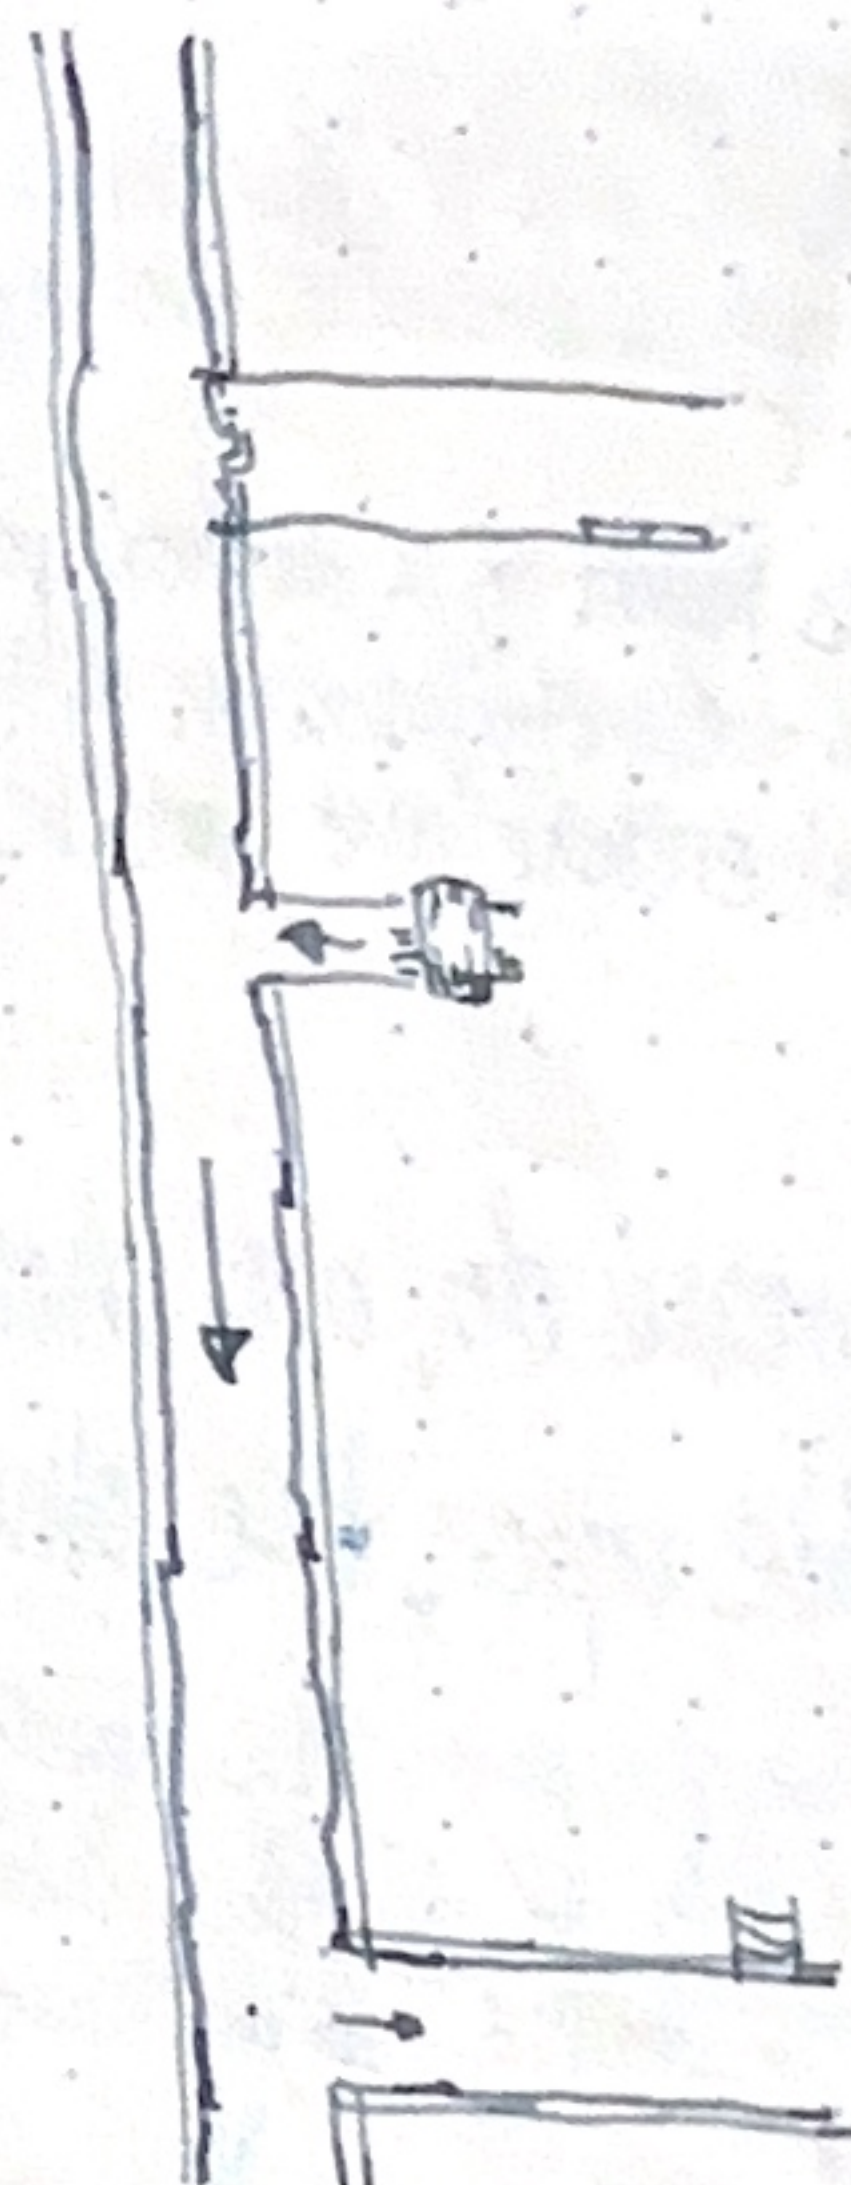

The Divine Masochist did not know of his Godhood, sealed by the Transference. The Nation unlatched this seal, which allowed for the ascension into the Godhead.

What to expect back at the Brown Carrot?

- Obel and his gang of goons are squeezing the populace, ~~holding~~ taking some pot shots at the Carrot's guard.

- Militia and Army regulars are pinned inside the barracks, preparing for a retaliatory assault. They've lost a couple of people due to a surprise attack from Obel's goons.

- Obel is waiting for Goldie to move and arrive, as soon as she does, he moves to surround the barracks with his men, who are starting to throw rocks.

BRANSON

Rima's manservant, chose to follow her to the ends of the Earth. His modest training in the ways of battle, hopefully, would be enough to protect the young miss from the evils of the world.

His power, however, lies in the Rage he can unleash when someone puts her in danger.

III PATRIARCH ANSELM of CALAMUTZ

Patriarch of the Theological powerhouse, that is the Patriarchate of Calamutz. Since the city is a hub of trade and learning, Anselm is a very influential Father in the Orthodoxy of Divine Masochism.

As a reaction to the ills of the world, he has ordered the Registration of the Unclean - a drive to find and register all green and leather-skinned individuals within the island and its environs.

Now he has also restricted travel for these individuals.

He is, in particular, trying to stamp out the heretical "Reformist Church of the Divine Masochist", which believed that the destruction of the Cathedral of Passion signifies a second coming to cleanse the land from the Children of Sin, that is all unmarked humans.

QUEEN ONAHORI of CALAMUTZ

A widow, and current Queen Regent, while her son is yet to grow into the role of King. The woman is a devout Masochist, who had authorized Anselm's responses to heresy.

She is known to be quite adept at Court Politics, but quite unsavory in regard to mercantilism.

ARCHONS

The military arm of the Calamutz Patriarchate. A force created by decree from the Queen to act under the supreme guidance of the Patriarch.

FATHER PATRICIO

A kindly priest, ~~within~~ whose parish is some of the outskirts of the city. He disobeys the mandate to register and incarcerate the "unclean," and bribes some members of the Archons to look the other way, regarding the youngest members.

PENITENCIO PURISIMO

A merchant, secret member of the Reformist Church. He also shelters mistreated "unclean" of the city. He teaches them to "break free from bondage".

ARCHONS of the Returned Divinity

A secret organization associated with the Reformists, who act as either bodyguards or assassins for Penitencio.

Remember! ARCHONS and PATRICIO SHOULD BE KINDLY AND NOT CRAZY!

Calamity Session 1:

Calamity, an island at the ~~mouth~~ mouth of the Calamitian Straits, renamed that way in order to honor the ~~the~~ island-nation and its king in the defense of the ~~the~~ straits, and in effect, the capital of the once powerful Purine Empire from the Kolhan invaders from the south, was in sight from the Dolmution helion while Kimalis was on deck.

Kimalis, an illegitimate child of between a daughter of a rich merchant family and the head of a powerful Dolmution noble house, found herself staring at the island, wondering if here, she could find more people with mutations ~~similar~~ to her own. Many rumors from tavern-houses and rumor-mongering ~~and~~ innkeepers here mentioned Calamity as a haven for those of off-colored skin and strange yellow eyes.

As they disembarked however, the fatigue of long-distance travel shrouded the many green-skinned individuals on the island already present by the docks.

In the morning however, after their first night at the Narwhal Inn, Kima found many "green-skins" flooding the city streets! They were laborers, rickshaw pullers, dock workers, even seamstresses! She, and her erstwhile companion, Branson, her brother, noticed a distinct lack of people more closely similar to her.

Luckily, a kindly rickshaw puller named Tag told them of a ghetto within the city where a majority of these "off-colored" lived, and offered to introduce Kima to them.

Kima and Branson met these people in a tavern within the ghetto dedicated to them. Along with Tag, he brought two more greenies and a "leather-face". Khay and Zam, and Matim respectively.

Kima did inspect Matim more closely, since it's the first time she'd met another like her, and who also exhibited abilities similar to hers. He mentioned that the proper terms were "Verdines" for "green-skins" and "Corrupts" for "leather-faces", all under the moniker "post-hominid".

Matim was able to convince Kima ~~however~~ to enroll into Calamity University, and perhaps work to pay for her dues. Branson took work in a bookstore in the University Ward.

Calamity Session 2

Much has happened after the first few seemingly idyllic days that Kimalis and her companion Branson spent in Calamity.

Before Kima could even ~~start~~ officially start her life as a student in the Department of Extra Human Abilities, her academic career seems to already have been cut short by a royal decree to ~~segregate~~ register and segregate the "off-color" population of Calamity.

The Duke, Arto Pise was reported to have spontaneously combusted, in an attempt to end the royal line. The explosion was said to have left the Crown Prince Gorm severely wounded and in critical condition.

Radical elements from the "off-color" population were blamed - the daughter of Duke Pise, and professor/dean of the Department of Extra Human Abilities, ~~Professor Pise~~ Zarifa Pise ~~was~~ and the group "Extra Humanist Liberation Front", in particular.

Zarifa, in particular was said to have been arrested immediately after the incident. Some known members of the ~~True~~ ELF were, as well. The massively decentralized group was mostly spread, however, due to their mostly secretive nature.

~~9 The Father, Patricia, an ELF sympathizer, was in touch with a cell leader Tag, who~~

Tag, a cell leader of ELF brought Kima and Matim to Father Patricia, the parish priest of the Ghetto's church.

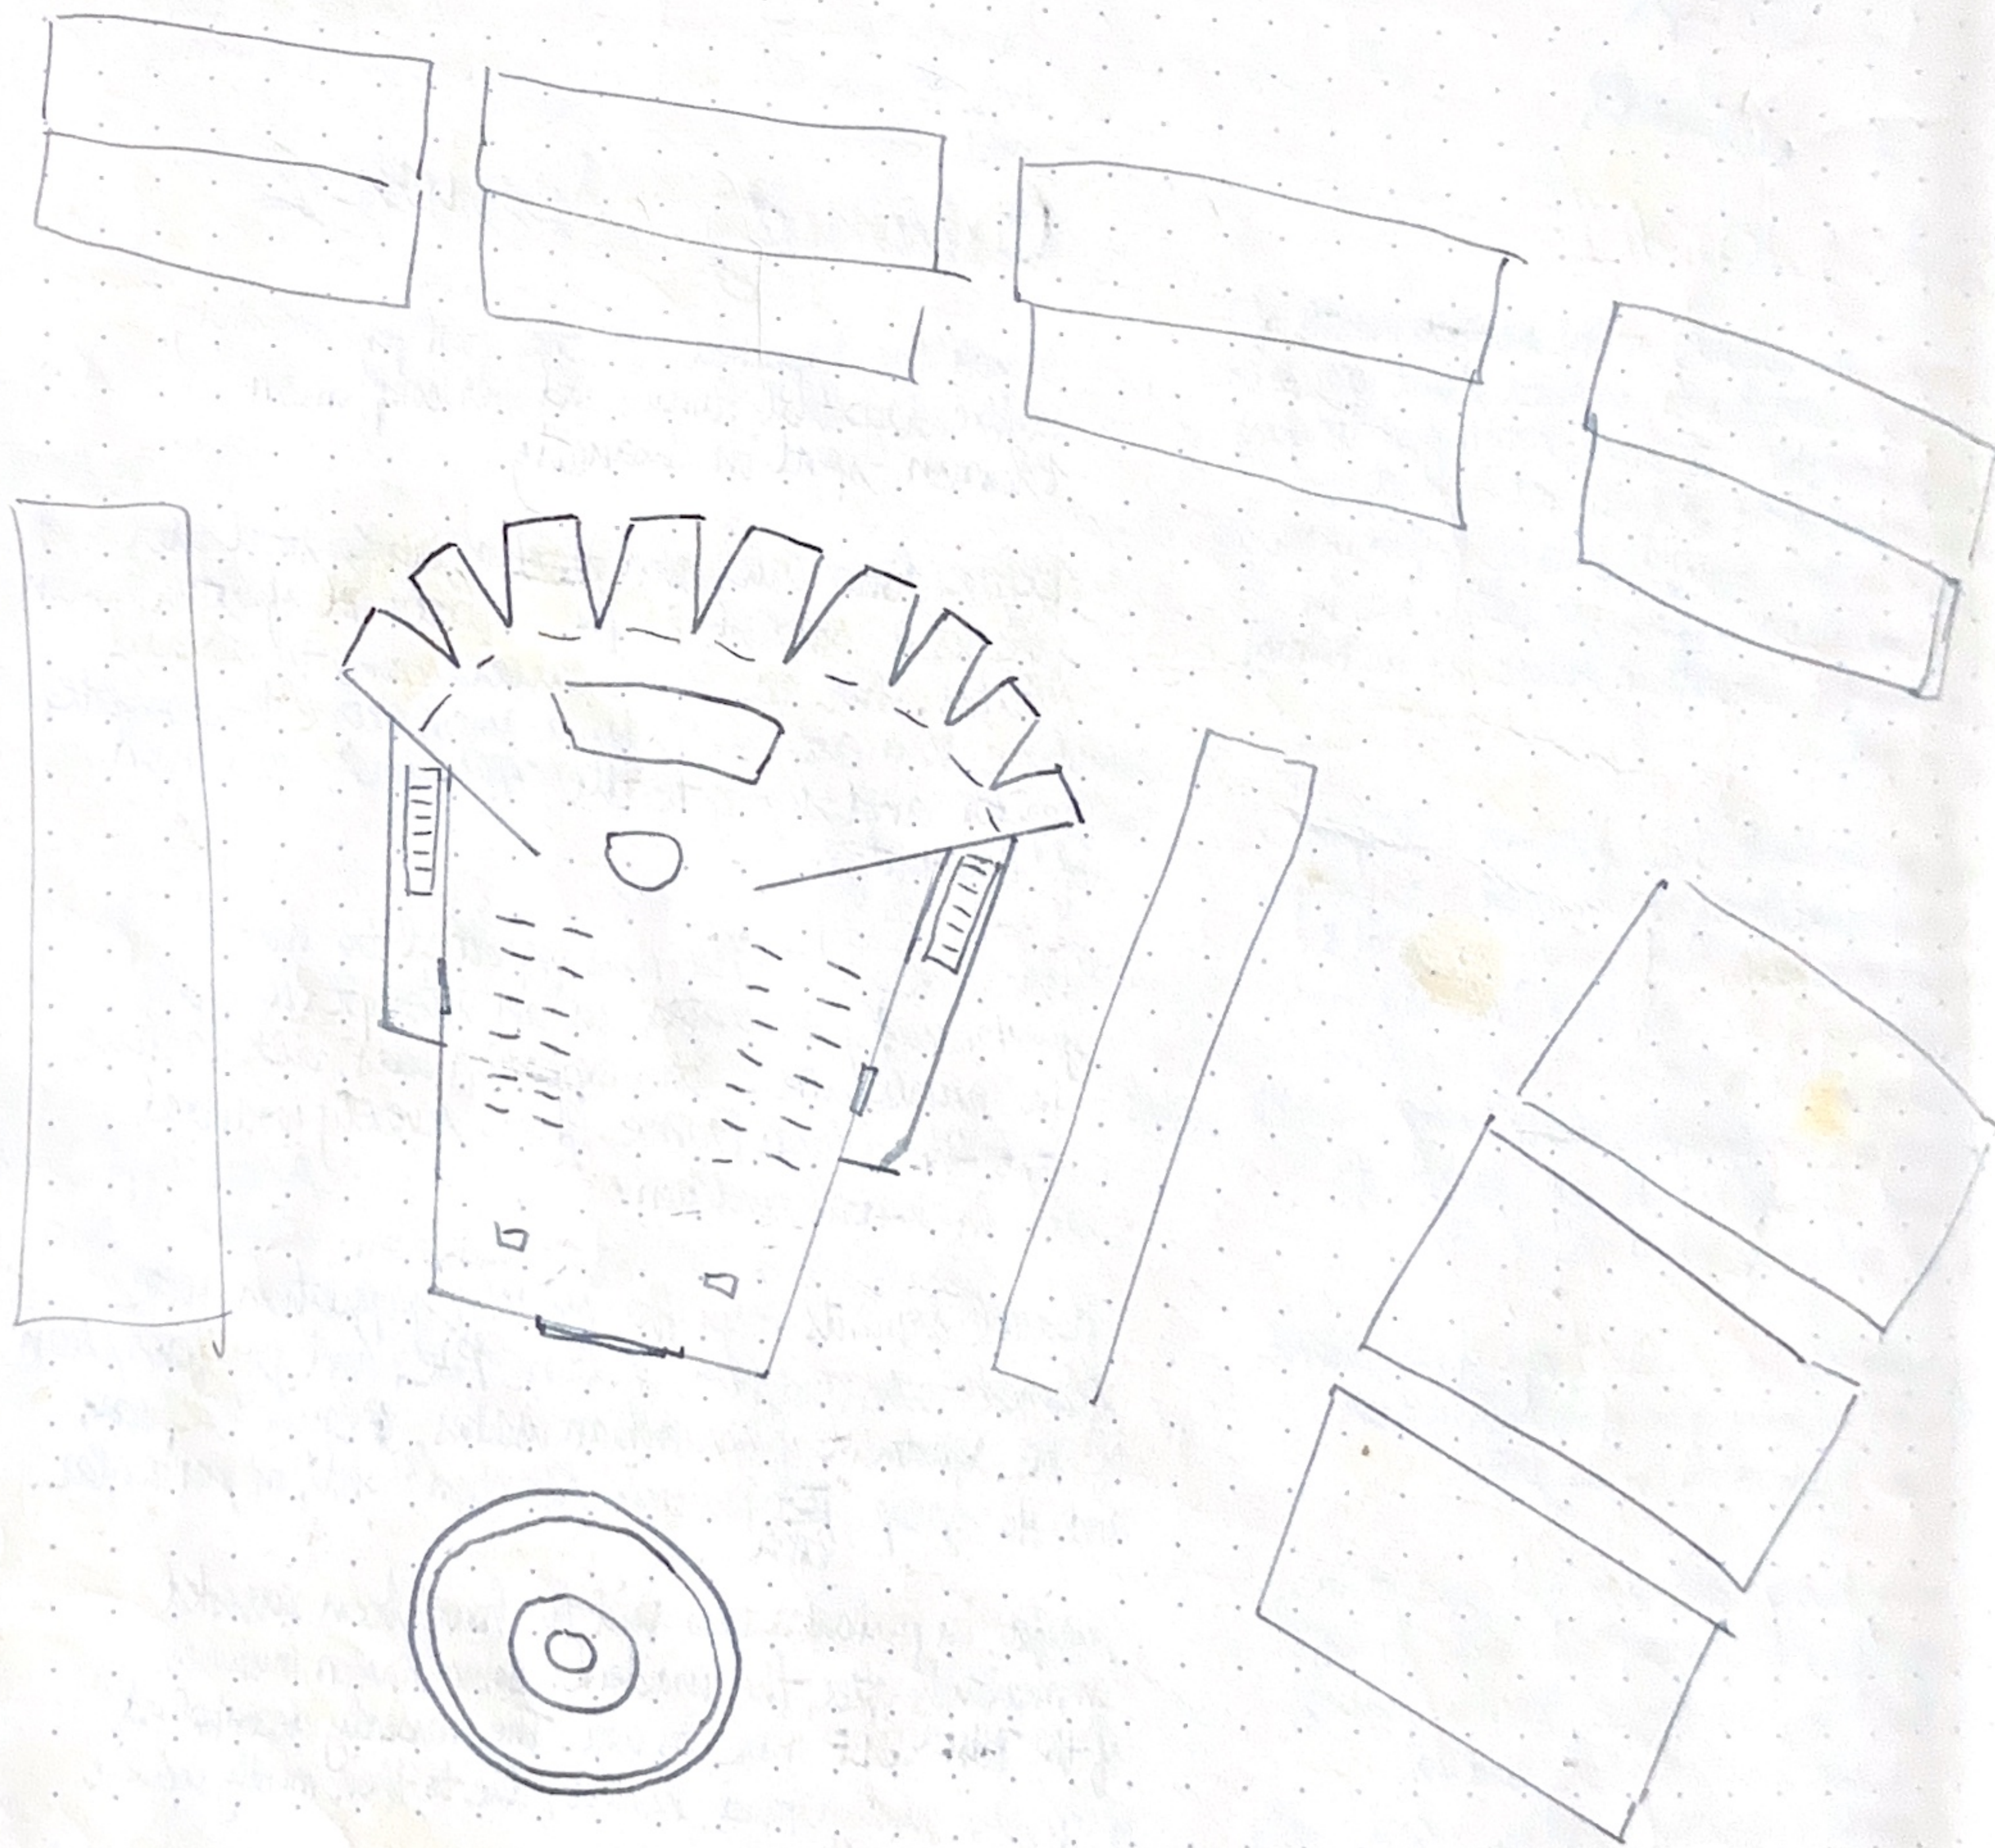

Father Patricia is an ELF sympathizer and one of the few Verdines in the Church of the Divine Marxist. He was torn between his position and his loyalty to his flock.

The Calamity Cathedral

The Cathedral itself is not is also surrounded by smaller chapels and religious order chapterhouses, as well as barracks of the Archons that protect it.

It runs mostly and autonomously by the Patriarch and other administrators under his rule. They are basically a separate "nation" within Calamity because of the leeway granted to them by the Calamitian Crown.

Ivan - proprietor of "Best mg Meat"

He did not want to act rashly. A wrong move would hamper his ability to help members of his flock, but inaction would instead hurt others.

Tay did have some ulterior motive to bring Mahim and Rima, however. Rima wants to rescue Zarifa very badly, and Tay knows that underneath the church was an exit into the storm sewers built beneath the entirety of Calamity.

An exit into the Noble Wood could indeed be found.

Father Patricio ~~also~~ then revealed that a leader in the local Reformed Church, who goes by the name, ~~Antônio~~ Purissimo, had extended help to him and his "off-colored" flock in exchange for some mass conversions.

China did have reservations due to her learned religious convictions, however Patriots did offer some help - a way to infiltrate the Redef. Mission without being caught - in exchange for a single favor, no questions asked for each one of them, in exchange for none.

~~That~~ They agreed, Penitentes then gave them a map of the sewer system and a promise that guards will be dealt with.

The promise was, indeed, ~~that~~ fulfilled. Two Archons of the Returned Divinity, ~~who~~ removed the guards posted and transformed the group into the felled guards.

They'd found that there was evidence of an explosion which may have killed or at least, severely hurt the Duke. The only blood, in fact, in the room had come from Duke's face.

Tag, who was transformed into a dog, found no fresh trace of other events that may be regarded as the Crown Prince's swell, which makes it infelicitous that the Crown prince himself was actually harmed.

Indeed, a maid had mentioned the the prince was not in the Royal Manors at the time. This led them to believe that the Queen, or the Patriarch may have had something to do with the entire thing. Perhaps a conspiracy to deminish the reputation of the EF, and the "off-colored" population in general.

Calamitz Session 3

Duke Timea converted to the Reformed

A day after infiltrating the Royal Mainson, Kinn and her friends decided to head to Komi Island, a small island beside Calamity, where an offshoot branch of the Royal Family holds court. ~~The Royal Family and the~~

From information they've extracted from one of the Royal Maids, they've found that the Crown Prince may have been moved well before the incident allegedly caused by the spontaneous ~~explosion~~ explosion of Duke 19e. Allegations that may be ~~far~~ proven false if the Crown Prince is unharmed in any way.

In order to prove that the Crown Prince is indeed well, the three sneak into Komi Island with the help of an ELF member, Ebony, a red-haired, pale-skinned woman who works as a carriage driver, and a group of smugglers.

On the island, they took refuge in an inn owned and operated by ELF sympathisers. In the basement of this inn hides an emeritus leader of the ELF, Michael. He is a first-generation Cornups. He had confirmed ^{rumor} ~~news~~ of the arrival of Royal coronations that may perhaps contain the Crown Prince.

4 Michael had drawn them maps of the ~~Royal~~ Residence, and have given them a general idea of the number of patrols inside. Come nightfall, the team used the information to infiltrate.

Once they entered, a bald man seemed to have snuck in as well. Seemingly, he bed one of the maids. As Kima went deeper inside the residence, she found that the man ~~did~~ paid a guard to let ~~them~~ him in.

The bald man intended to kill the Crown Prince if Rima wasn't able to stop him.

It was revealed that aside from the fact that the crown prince was unharmed, he also had golden blonde hair and bright yellow irises.
